

2020 SAFE Awards FAQs

ELIGIBILITY

Do I have to be an NAHB member to apply? You must be an NAHB member (or an employee of a member company) to both nominate an individual and be selected to win. However, if you are entering the Specialty Trade Contractor Safety Program of the Year, Siding Contractor Safety Program of the Year, or Job-Site Safety Institute Innovative Safety Idea of the Year categories, you do not need to be an NAHB member.

I entered the SAFE Awards previously. Can I enter again? Yes, unless you or your company received a first place SAFE Award in the past two years, you or your company will be eligible again two years after the last award received in the same category. For example, if you received the award in 2017, you would be able to apply for an award in 2020 in that same category.

Can I enter in more than one category? Yes. For example, you may apply in the Single-family Safety Program of the Year and Remodeler Safety Program of the Year categories if you perform both types of work. Call or email Christian Culligan, NAHB Program Manager for Safety, if you are unsure which categories are best suited for your project: (202) 266-8590 or cculligan@nahb.org.

My company had a fatality on a project in the past twelve (12) months. Can I enter in the SAFE Awards? No, the candidate is not qualified and should reapply in the future.

My company had a finalized "Repeat" or "Willful" OSHA citation in the past three (3) years. Can I enter in the SAFE Awards? No, the candidate is not qualified and should reapply in the future.

If the judges feel your submission belongs in another category, they will move it during judging. Your entry will not be penalized.

Can I change my entry to a different category after submitting? Yes, you may change your entry to a different category until October 30, 2020 by contacting contact Christian Culligan at (202) 266-8590 or cculligan@nahb.org.

JUDGING

How are the winners selected? Judging is conducted by a panel of three (3) industry experts, including builders, consultants, and safety professionals from across the country. Judges are provided all information submitted in the application and closely examine each applicant's commitment to construction safety and health. Judges may select winners in any or all categories, and judges may award more than one of each award per category in the event of a tie. Awards may not be given in a category if the entries submitted do not meet the quality requirements.
